Meeting of Citizens' Sub-Committee. A meeting of the Sub-committee of Streets and Railroads of the Georgetown Citizens' Association was held last night at Association Hall, to consider the method of the application of power to the proposed Georgetown & Tenleytown Railroad. A committee consisting of John T. Mitchell and John Leatch was appointed to consult with the officers of the proposel road as to the best method of the application of said power and at the same time protect the interest of the citizens. This subcommittee will report to a special meeting of the Citizens' Association at Association Hall on Monday evening next. The association does not wish to be understood as offering opposition to the road, but only desires that the right of citizens shall be protected in the matter.

Delightful Relic of Old Times in Padua. Says the London Referee: Another delightful relic of the life and times of the Tyrant of Padea is a simple key-about the size of an ordinary door key. It was the key of the library in his private room. When he wanted to get rid of any room. When he wanted to get rid of any of his suite or any person in his house-hold that he had a bitter feeling against he used to ring his bell and ask tor act. John to be sent to him (fancy name of course). When John entered the Duke would say: "O, John, I wish you would go to the bookcase in my private room and bring me the 'Dagonet Ballads."

"Certainly, your Grace," Mr. John would say, and away he would frot with the key in his hand. When he got to the library he would put the key in the lock in the bookesse and turn it. But directly he turned it, out of the handle shot a long poisoned needle, which stabbed the hand of the holder and irstantly shot back

John would let go of the key and say, "What the deuce was that." He would look at his hand and see only a small, dark blue spot. He would think nothing of it, but all of a sudden he would begin to feel queer in his head. would begin to feel queer in his head. Presently some one would come in and tind him in a fit on the floor, and the household would be alarmed. "Mr. John has had a stroke or a fit," the people would say. A doctor would be sent for, but his services would be of no avail. It is the very quintessence of economy to buy a good glove, and for that reason above all others we will keep no other kind. We sell only such &c., qualities as we think it to your interest to buy. We don't sell goods simply to get TYSSOWSKI profit. The store would never have grown an inch on such principle. We are after your Cor. 15th and G Sts. trade-your money, if you will-but we propose to always give you its equivalent, or better, or your money.
